For information and communication purposes, Neopost icons have been designed. They must be used as shown on this page, and cannot be altered or redrawn. If needed, additional pictograms could be designed. They must be simple and explicit, and need to be drawn as shown on this page, with one main line sharp on one side and rounded on the other. Icons could come in the different colors of the color palette.

There is an icon library available on the intranet which is regularly updated.

Refer to «Icon Library (inDesign sources, png in different colors)» on the intranet.

Icons can be used on websites only with the colors of the guidelines:

Web pictures are human focused showing more realistic situations to portrait that Neopost is changing to meet the needs of a modern world. Web pictures are different to corporate images and speak more directly to our target audience and appear more accessible.

The first thing our target sees on websites is our pictures and titles. This is why we have to make them feel involved with pictures that talk to them.

You can contact the communication team in Paris to access the link to these photos.

Omnichannel fulfillment is the ability for retailers to fulfill orders out of their distribution centers, warehouses, manufacturing sites or stores.

When there are no sub categories, the navigation layer does not appear when you are on hover position.

The right part of the navigation menu can be a “promotion area” where you can put forward a specific product range through a short text and a picture.

Managing your storage and inventory of letterhead, forms, brochures, catalogues, price lists and more is an important aspect of your customer communications operations. Due to the rapid growth in digital communications the cost of managing hard copies has been reduced as more enterprises are sending less physical mail. However businesses cannot eliminate physical mail entirely from their communications strategy.

So what can you do to keep the costs of your paper-based customer communications to a minimum?

So what can you do to keep the costs of your paper-based customer communications to a minimum?

Document Inventory

Look around any office and you will see cupboards, filing cabinets and sometimes entire rooms filled with stationery, pre-printed forms and brochures. There is a tendency for a lot us to view inventory as an unavoidable cost of doing business. But today, with the growth in digital substitution, it is no longer necessary to tie up your enterprise's money in documents that could well become out of date before they are ever used.

Document Templates

Documents output management solutions let you create and use electronic templates that remove the need for pre-printed forms. Form-based documents, such as invoices, can be created and output onto plain paper or distributed electronically as part of a unified digital workflow.
